

Summer School in Poverty Eradication: Access to Land, Access to Food

Milan, 1st - 4th September 2014

IRIN/Tommy Trenchard

Approaching the post-2015 development agenda and EXPO2015 - Feeding the Planet, Energy for life requires a broader understanding of land access and food security, in order to engage a discussion on viable solutions towards poverty eradication and sustainability, combining ethical principles with realistic policy options and cooperation practices.

This course builds on a multidisciplinary perspective, covering:

- Legal and Institutional Framework: Right to food as a human right; Access to land: investments, land tenure and land grabbing; FAO Voluntary Guidelines on the Governance of Tenure.
- Land, water, food: policies and institutions for a sustainable development: Poverty, inequality and food security; Land conflict management; Reducing food losses while protecting human health and the environment; Water management and rural development.
- Cross-cutting issues on poverty eradication and food security: Food safety to promote food security; Access to land for women; Land, Forestry and Indigenous rights; Climate change and agriculture.

The Summer School is a residential, 25 hours course, including lectures, group work and open discussion. The Faculty of Scienze politiche e sociali, Università Cattolica del Sacro Cuore, and ASERI Masters' Courses award 3 ECTS credits.

Experts from:

- Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO)
- International Land Coalition (ILC)
